1. My short term professional goal is to get an consulting job in this summer while taking summer classes. My long term goal is to work in an international consulting firm in Shanghai. Family is a very important factor and that's why I want to work in Shanghai where my parents will be.
2. From conversations with awesome brothers, I learned that our brotherhood hold many invaluable events and workshops for our members. Also, being in such an inclusive environment mean we will help each other for whatever professional challenge we face. Friends are sweet but brothers are united.
3. As a freshman gap, I can't say I will "teach lectures" or provide excellent networking opportunities to our brotherhood. But, I will put my heart into it. I have a very agreeable nature and I'm more than happy to join every brotherhood event and group discussion. If there's any work our brotherhood need me to do such as working on financial sheets, delivering flyers or even doing the chores. I know I will be with our brotherhood all the time.
