Entrepreneurship is about communication; negotiating a better price, inspiring people that works alongside you, and maintaining a good relationship with your costumer all needs a good communication skills. In the short term, I intend to improve my communication skills. Alpha Kappa Psi have members from all around the world with various professional backgrounds and also interests, which will enable me to build a relationship with them and to improve my communication skills. Unlike other clubs that exist in school, Alpha Kappa Psi's member is considered as a part of a family, which will give me the platform to improve that is also welcoming and supporting. In the long term, my goal is to start a business that will help my community. As I said earlier, Alpha Kappa Psi have people with various business interests, I believe that there will be someone who will be able to guide me in any kind of business interest that I will commit my time and effort to.

2. If you were a brother of Alpha Kappa Psi, what would you contribute to the brotherhood? 150 words max)

As I was interning in a bank last summer, I was scared that I couldn't deliver results as good as the other interns that are older and more experienced than me. I was tasked to do a research about the demographic of people in Indonesia, which is a really broad task. While interning, I learn many things through the research and also by asking others around me with their advice. I was able to be open-minded to hear other's advices and commit my time to the internship so that by the end of it, I was able to found out that the millennial generation in Indonesia is barely tapped into, which is a good opportunity for the bank. Recently, they just launched their new credit card that is targeted towards millennials. I would bring the same commitment and open mind that I have to Alpha Kappa Psi so that both me and the organization can improve in the future.

3. Out of all the applicants, what do you think makes you unique? Why do you believe you should be extended a bid? (200 words max)

Out of all the applicants, I believe that my resume does not stands out. What makes me unique is not something that you would able to see there, it is my eagerness to fulfill my curiosity. One morning I was buying coffee in Starbucks while I was walking with my dad, and he said to me he didn't like the coffee that Starbucks have. I replied to him that I can't really tell the difference between coffees. That statement spurs an interest about coffee, something I drink almost daily, yet is unable to tell whether one is good or not. I learned about it for weeks and tried different type of coffees in different places to understand it. By the end of it, I was pretty much capable of tasting the different tastes of coffees and figure out which one I like. I believe that this eagerness to learn, not just because it looks good on the resume or because it will help me get a job, but simply because I am curious, is what makes me unique.
