

1. Spades, Hearts, Clubs or Diamonds. Which one are you and why? (150 words max)

Spades. I am a highly relationship-oriented worker, and see myself as an empathetic person who is willing to help others in their times of need, as well as professionally assist in tasks when asked. I associate this characteristic with the upside down heart shape hidden in the spades. The heart also symbolizes the flexibility of my character, as I am mostly open to pursuing new ideas even if they may be complicated. On the other hand, the black color of the suit embodies my firmness, since even though I have a tendency to give-in (High S according to DiSC), I try not to be a pushover and debate my point of view when I have a vision.

2. If you were a brother of Alpha Kappa Psi, how would you contribute professionally to the brotherhood? (150 words max)

Going to an international boarding school in Singapore has taught me to interact with people of different cultures and values. I learned to make friends with people different from me, because this way I am able to learn their perspectives and expand my horizons, and the key is to stay open to new ideas. I believe that to grow as a person, one has to be able to find different ways of approaching different types of people to collaborate effectively. I believe I would contribute to the brotherhood with my diverse communication skills, as well as international connections I retained from my international school and summer camps.

3. Out of all the applicants, what do you think makes you unique? Why do you believe you should be extended a bid? (200 words max)

I have a vision that I believe goes hand in hand with that of Alpha Kappa Psi. With a large number of my life experiences revolving around service I discovered a true passion, one that holds meaning to me. In my previous internships and charity works I realized it is easy to blindly follow the path of service without making a significant difference. As much as I want to help people, I came to the understanding that the optimal way lies within the fine line between companies and their social responsibility. In the modern world I believe that social service relies not only on NGOs but all companies. I want to explore and expand that fine line with peers that share my aspirations and hopefully spread my vision. I believe I will grow together with Alpha Kappa Psi while also spreading my vision, one that will be of benefit. I wish to build upon my existing network and enhance that of Alpha Kappa Psi in the service field.
