

1 - Short term, I intend to join graduate school after my time at Babson. One programme that has particularly caught my eye is the one offered by Wharton. The combination of law and a business degree is really exciting. Long term, I hope to turn my families' business into a multinational company, and therefore away from solely being in Pakistan. Alpha Kappa Psi, can be integral for me to achieve my endeavours both short and long term, as it will provide me with a very global network. Via the connections formed with the brothers who are currently in Alpha Kappa Psi and the brothers who have previously been part of this organization, I will be able to pave my path to diversifying my families' business. Whilst this is a more long term goal of mine, in the short term it will develop me to become a better professional and have a close friendship with all the brothers, making my time at Babson more enjoyable. The professional aspect of it will also further enhance my prospects of getting that place in my ideal graduate school programme.

2- During my time at Babson, I would be able to offer all the brothers with a lot of support. I am someone who take pride in his public speaking abilities. I have already partaken in plays and done stand up comedy. Which is why if any brother ever requires any help with it, i will always be there to provide assistance. Similarly, if any brother ever needs someone to talk to, I will always be there to help them out to the best of my abilities. In the long term, having a big business in Pakistan can also be helpful for brothers looking to invest there. Along with this, if anyone was travelling to the region and wanted to explore the countries' beautiful mountains or rich architectural culture, I will be able to provide them with any form of assistance they might require.

3- The fact that I have a very international background, having lived in three continents by the age of 18 makes me stand out from other applicants. I have already experienced life in Canada , the UK and Pakistan, I am someone who knows first hand how to live with people from a vast variety of backgrounds. Along with this, my brain has been wired in a rather philosophical way. By this I mean that i enjoy to think about and critically evaluate most questionable things, which is basically anything other than maths. The fact that "bubbly" has been a common adjective to describe me is a reason for me to be extended a bid. This is because it sums up my ability to make everyone around me feel better and power through with whatever is going on. .Along with this, the philosophical mind can be helpful as the critical evaluation might help other brothers find issues in their ideas, that they might not have otherwise noticed, through which they will be able to make any necessary improvements to their ideas.
