

Questions:

1. Spades, Hearts, Clubs or Diamonds. Which one are you and why? (150 words max)

In a deck of cards, the four suits comprise of the diamonds, hearts, spades and clubs. The traditional belief of the suits symbolizes the Heart as love, the Club as spirituality, the Diamond as materiality and the Spade as power.

From observing the way that I was brought up, I see myself as a heart. This is because I was brought up in a very tightly knit family that constantly showers me with so much love and care. Because of the constant love that I have been brought up with, I believe that has made me possess a very loving personality. I love making people feel special and it is always a treat to see other people happy because of the things that I have done for them, whether it be a material gift, or a simple act of service. Seeing people happy is definitely one of my sources of happiness.

2. If you were a brother of Alpha Kappa Psi, how would you contribute professionally to the brotherhood? (150 words max)

I am generally quite proactive in any community that I am apart of. In high school when I was elected as the student council secretary, I have learnt how to effectively work with my peers and organize events to build a tighter knit community. When I helped organize “The Masquerade” in high school, I was overjoyed to see how the students began to interact with other students from different grades, which was quite uncommon before. Initiating these events has made me realize how much I enjoy building a positive community.

In the Babson Indonesian Association, I always thought that we could all benefit more from it if it were a closer knit community. Because of this, I have started to put myself out there and initiate meetups even as a freshman. Therefore altogether, I believe that I can contribute to the brotherhood by assisting in event planning and coordination.

3. Out of all the applicants, what do you think makes you unique? Why do you believe you should be extended a bid? (200 words max)

I am an extremely determined person so when I find myself having new goals, I immediately do whatever it takes to reach them. An example is when I saw how the Babson Indonesian community was not very close. I decided that if no one were to change things, I should proceed and do it myself. I have then started to initiate meetups to foster a better and closer community.

Another unique characteristic of mine is that I have a very detailed view of goals I want to achieve in the future, which is to build a cosmetics company that caters to the lower-income demographic.

This is because the majority of the population in my home country, Indonesia, are part of that demographic. Most cosmetics companies cater to moderate to higher-income demographics, meaning that market is already saturated. Therefore, instead of trying to compete with these 'giants', I plan to fill a market gap that has very few competitors.

Having a very detailed view of what I plan to do in the future allows me to stay focused in what I do as I already know my final destination and what steps I have to take to reach my goals.
