3. How will you contribute to the fraternity? (max 300 words)

I am a pretty calm, optimistic, and realistic person. When I am in a team, and some unanticipated bad things happen, I will always be the person who tells everyone to calm down and think up several solutions. I believe that bad things can happen every day in every place and what we need to focus is what to do next. I feel if I join AKPsi, I can contribute to it by bringing my calm mindset in this team. Therefore, our family can be even more unbeatable.

In addition, I can also contribute to this professional business fraternity by contributing my talent in management and marketing. I used to be a good team leader with paternalistic leadership style. Every team member who truly participated in my previous organization would feel my passion and eagerness in helping them grow up together by doing great things together. I was also in charge of several successful marketing events by utilizing multiple social media in China.

Moreover, joining AKPsi will be a great opportunity for me to improve my current skills and explore my potential fully. I would actively participate in this big family. I am more than happy to meet every brother in AKPsi, learn things from brothers, and also contribute every new skill I acquire in the future back to this strong family.

4. How do you measure success? (max 300 words)

I measure success by evaluating the internal influence and external influence created by the person or the organization.

I always tell my teammates in my own organization that our team's success is measured by not only the external influence we create for our society but also by the internal influence we have on our member. We can easily measure our external influence by viewing how many followers we have on social media, how many people we helped, how many cities and schools we cover, and how participants go to our event etc.

Sometimes, internal influence can be more crucial to an organization. I think internal influence is how much each team member gains from being in part of this group. As the founder and leader of a club, I want to ensure that our team grows up together, learns from doing together, and enjoys our life after school together. I feel proud when one girl in my club told me how much she changed from a shy girl to the leader of the Design Department. I would not define me as a successful leader, if my organization only gains great external influence but not enough internal influence.

5. What previous experience from your past makes you feel like you relate to AKPsi?

I feel I relate to AKPsi because I believe that I can only work hard and live happily if I can find a group where I can feel a sense of belonging. After attending all the events organized by AKPsi, I believe I can feel it in this family. In my high school year, I created two clubs where I can feel the sense of belonging and love from my teammates. Their passion always encourages me to tackle difficult problems happening in life.

Also, I value the strength of mentorship. I once wrote a 20,000+ word academic paper on how a mentorship program can help reform the current education system in China. I think students who have a mentor to help them figure out problems in life can achieve more than those who don't. I think elder brother in AKPsi is all willing to guide their fellows. I want to be a little brother at first, empower myself faster under my big's support, and then become a mentor for brother younger than me in the future.
