1. Have you previously rushed Alpha Kappa Psi? (Yes/No)

No

2. What other organizations/extracurriculars are you a part of?

Intramural soccer

Intern for The Atlantic – an educational company in Vietnam.

3. How will you contribute to the fraternity? (max 300 words)

- I have experiences in media and poster designing, which could be useful for the fraternity when it comes to advertising for events, the fraternity itself, etc.
- I love involving in organizing events and works related to human resources, which could also be helpful.
- I am currently in my third month of my intern, which has provided me necessary insights and skills of how to work and collaborate efficiently in a large organization.
- I love helping other people, and I believe it is an important character for an organization which values brotherhood highly like AKPsi.
- I believe in “Simplicity is key”: I always try to (and I am also good at) break down the work into small steps and keep everything away from complexity. This has proven to be vital during my intern, and I hope I could bring it to AKPsi.
- Sometimes I can be funny.

4. How do you measure success? (max 300 words)

It is 11. Time to go to bed.

I lay down, turn my iPad on. After 5 minutes of random scrolling, I put it aside, close my eyes.

Now, there are two ways I may continue my night. Either I can feel empty because I spent my whole day on games and the internet, or I can sleep tight with the thought that “Wow I have done something today”.

I love such moments like the latter one: to me they measure success well. I am aware that there are many deep and profound measurements out there, but for me being successful is just simply going to bed every night knowing that I have done “something” – it could be anything: finishing a homework, making a step forward in a project, truly understanding a concept taught in class – that day. I do not want to have the feeling of regret, of “should have done”, I always try to make the best of my day.

In the long run, it is beneficial as long term projects can always be broken down into small simple steps, and I strongly believe that those “I have done something” days are the signs that I am following the steps well.

5. What previous experience from your past makes you feel like you relate to AKPsi?

- In my high school, I was in my school’s Music Club, a formal organization which oversees school’s recreational activities and event. I imagine being in AKPsi would partly be similar to being in that Club, where everything is structured and organized following the business style.
- I have been having an intern, which again makes me feel related to a business frat like AKPsi.
