1. Have you previously rushed Alpha Kappa Psi? (Yes/No)

Yes

2. What other organizations/extracurriculars are you a part of?

Babson CODE as the VP of Recruitment, and I’m an RA in middle campus as well.

3. How will you contribute to the fraternity? (max 300 words)

I believe one of the most important contributions that I could make is to help a brother out when they’re in need. I will contribute to the fraternity by being there for our brothers and helping them out when they need. I believe that’s really important because I myself has already experience where a brother gone out of their way to help me. During the finance panel, I kept on asking questions because I was really interested and wanted to learn more. I kept on asking questions even until the event is over. Roberto, even though he needed to take a call, decided to stay and talk with us. I remember him saying that “is worth it” to talk to us even if he has to delay the call. That made me feel really valued and I want people to feel that way also when I’m talking with them.

4. How do you measure success? (max 300 words)

In AKPsi, I will measure success by the meaningful moments and connections that I have with my brothers. I believe that at the end of the day, no matter what business one is in, it all comes down to creating value for others. I have always lived by that credo. Additionally, if I can help my brothers in a business sense as well, that makes it even better.

5. What previous experience from your past makes you feel like you relate to AKPsi?

When I was interning for a startup in high school during junior year, I met a student who was two years younger than me. The student’s name is Varun. When I first met Varun, I didn’t think much of him. I thought he was a smart and hardworking guy and that was the end of it. As we kept on meeting because of our positions in the startup, we started to grow closer. He would always ask me questions about what junior year was like, and as I went into senior year, what senior year was like. He would ask me about the SATs, ACTs, GPA, and resumes because he wanted to know more about the process of applying and getting into college. As our terms ended at the startup, he kept in touch and never stopped talking with me. It was as if I was some kind of mentor to him. When I first started asking questions and talking with people at AKPsi, it was reminiscent of my connection with Varun. Like in the finance panel, I kept on asking questions even after the official event. I kept on asking even after the event, and I even sent emails to ask further questions. I legitimately had questions I wanted answered. Going back to my contribution to AKPsi, I hope I can be more like the brothers that I have spoken to, making meaningful connections with people who are as willing to help others as I want to be.
