Questions:

1. Spades, Hearts, Clubs or Diamonds. Which one are you and why? (150 words max)

I'm a materialistic business major, so I should be diamonds. I'm comfortable with conflict so I should be spades. I care about working hard so I should be clubs. The one thing I shouldn't be, is hearts. I can be guarded and sarcastic on the surface. But beneath that, I realize that hearts is actually the best fit. The base motivation for everything I do is my relationships with other people. I started working so I would have enough money to go out every weekend with my friends and so my parents wouldn't have to worry about my money. I want to find financial success so I can have more freedom to see people I care about more and so that I can pay for my parents' retirement. Although much of who I am fits better with the other three suits, my basic motivation comes from the suit of hearts.

2. If you were a brother of Alpha Kappa Psi, how would you contribute professionally to the brotherhood? (150 words max)

As a brother of AKPsi, I would be excited to organize professional events for the fraternity to participate in. One of my goals would be to get in touch with chapters at other schools in the Boston area to organize events, such as case competitions, networking events, and alumni speaker events. I would also want to organize events on campus, helping cement AKPsi within the business society at Babson by organizing events on campus for the school that helps promote the fraternity's work and culture. Additionally, I want to get to know more brothers not only socially, but also professionally so that I can learn and then pass on experiences in the future to new pledge classes. When I commit to something, I go all-in, and I want to commit myself to both improving myself and also being helpful to AKPsi as a whole.

3. Out of all the applicants, what do you think makes you unique? Why do you believe you should be extended a bid? (200 words max)

What differentiates me from other applicants is my commitment to my friends. I am not only rushing AKPsi because it is an exceptional professional organization, but primarily because of how much I genuinely liked talking to brothers at the different events. Before coming to Babson, no matter how challenging the situation, I always knew that I could find peace and happiness in my friend groups. Because of this, I always devote everything I have to the people I care about. For example, I started working in writing consulting because many of my friends, from children of Mexican immigrants from my public school to international students from boarding school, spoke English as a second (or third or fourth) language and struggled with academic writing. I reached and remain at a point where I spend more time helping people with writing than I spent on my own work. I was always the person anyone could rely on to stay up all night to deal with a problem. What I offer is unmatched personal commitment to AKPsi and to my brothers.
