3. How will you contribute to the fraternity? (max 300 words)

As regards contribution, I feel I can offer good vibes and hospitality. I am the type of individual of that is willing to put others ahead of themselves. Also, I feel as I can contribute to the diversity aspect of the fraternity. I am a part of LGBT community and I feel as though I would be able to offer a perspective of that community since it is misrepresented. Also, I am very into fashion and helping others create their own style and making them feel good, so if I can help some of the brothers down the line, I am willing to do so.

4. How do you measure success? (max 300 words)

There are multiple ways that one person can measure success. For me, measuring success is not based upon getting the best grades or the best job opportunity, but, the sense of feeling satisfied. I was always the type to listen to everyone else in my community and do things that were not exciting to me. I was always told I needed to be the top of my class or I needed to get the best job than anyone else. I was constantly compared to others and I always met other expectation, but not my own. I decided to go down my own path of doing things that make me the individual that I am today. I work with friends to help them create their own brands and seeing them happy and excited is how I measure success. If I satisfy others, then I am satisfied and I achieve success.

5. What previous experience from your past makes you feel like you relate to AKPsi?

In high school, I was a part of a club known as the Tour Guiding Club. It was an organization where students from the school would come together on specific nights, stay in the school till almost 10 pm, giving tours and answering questions for incoming students. I participated in this club for all four years of high school and I became the captain in my senior year. I felt as though this club gave me the opportunity to form a close bond with everyone that was involved, but also learn how to step up to the plate and take on a larger role. When I went to the Alpha Kappa Psi events, I can see how close the brothers are to one another and how much everyone was willing to assist each other in their time of need. I felt as though I was in high school again, in the Tour Guiding Club and it was exciting.
